NORTH CAROLINA BUSINESS NOTES

Brief Stories of Progress From Various Sections of Old North State.

The Winston News says:
Senator Simmons believes that North Carolina has a good chance to secure $500,000 to $1,000,000 appropriation for experimental work in road building, enacted by the last post-office appropriation bill. Senator Simmons has had a number of conferences recently with the Postmaster-General, the Secretary of Agriculture, and Director of Roads Page, under whose direction the work is to be done, and he believes that in a short time the experimental work in North Carolina will be commenced.

Commissioner of Agriculture Graham is after the Legislature to let him go ahead and build a house for the department. He asks for no appropriation, but proposes to borrow the money and pay it back out of the revenues the department brings in. The receipts from the department's work are not far from $200,000 a year, and it is admitted that Commissioner Graham has done things that entitle him to consideration.
So says the Charlotte Observer.

The city of Asheville has had compulsory education for the past six years, and it has been a decided success. The school attendance is being equal to more than 70 per cent of the city's population. A number of communities in North Carolina have tried compulsory education, but State having a kind of local option law on this subject.

Greensboro is making an effort to have tried compulsory education. The city is one of the big tobacco companies located in that town.

It is believed that North Carolina will soon put in operation a traveling auditor system under the supervision of the general State Auditor, whereby the affairs of each county will be properly audited once a year.

The Cleveland Cotton Mills, of Lawdale, will install finishing machinery for ball winding and treating, having erected a twelve-foot addition to accommodate this new equipment. The company has 5,000 spindles, etc.

The Littman Mills, of Salisbury, has been incorporated, with an authorized capital of $50,000, by I. Litt-man and associates.

T. B. Upchurch, J. C. Thomas and others of Raleigh, have completed plans to build a hydro-electric plant on a 2,000-acre cotton mill. The water power to be developed is Rockwell Creek, and electricity is to be used for the new mill.

The Caswell County Sentinel, in urging good roads work, says:
"The county is not too poor to build good roads. Not to build good roads is folly and spells poverty. They will cost money. What of that? It takes money to make money. Good roads will create wealth immeasurable in this country. The value of our roads will be doubled and trebled. Build good roads. What matters it that we settle a debt upon posterity? It will arise up to bless us for our thoughtfulness."

E. C. Duncan, of Raleigh, has submitted a proposition to the State through Governor Coker to purchase the State's interest in the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad.

The Dudley Shoals Cotton Mill Company has bought the Lilledown Shoals, on Middle Little River from John Watts & Son, of Alexandria County.

The Greensboro News says: Farmers are taking advantage of the parcel post when we learned the other day that a Greensboro firm was shipping horse collars to farmers via parcel post. The system has wondrous possibilities.

Mr. Weitzel at University.
Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Weitzel left Richmond yesterday for the University of Virginia, where Mr. Weitzel has been asked to give an organ recital in Cahill Hall to-day. This musical will be one of a series of six such events, which are given annually at the University.

Mr. Weitzel was recently secured as organist at St. James Episcopal Church here, the music committee of which church is high in its praise of the beautiful rendition of his high class music. Before going to St. James he played at Grace Street Presbyterian Church.
